

“Does this war make me look fat?”

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

COMEDY WEB-SERIES PUTS BUSH ADMINISTRATION ON TRIAL

Comedy Web-Series “Fun With War Crimes” releases trailer and asks the important question, “Does this war make me look fat?”

Los Angeles, CA (PRWEB) April 11, 2008 – Comedy web-series FUN WITH WAR CRIMES puts the Bush Administration on Trial for war crimes and other unholy messes as they release their first trailers today into the social networking phenomena through YouTube, Google and other sites.

The comedy web-series is an equal opportunity braising of George Bush, Karl Rove, Condoleeza Rice, Dick Cheney, Donald Rumsfeld, General Petraeus and lots of others. Special appearances by Jesus, Ahhhnold Schwarzenegger and others leave audiences laughing and chuckling through the embarrassment of it all.

Doggie Dream Productions and Kiros Pictures produced the 8 episode web series and will launch Episode # 1 “Heckuva Job!” on May 1. Tired of waiting for real justice, the comedy team is preparing to enjoy poetic justice for the May 1 launch of the comedy web-series FUN WITH WAR CRIMES as May 1 is the anniversary of the Bush Administration’s carefully orchestrated, yet still not true Mission Accomplished.

Series Writer/Director Tim Bartell says, “I felt that until there is some sort of global system of justice, as an artist, I just had to invent one. I’ve always felt if you can’t prosecute them, satirize them. That’s the feeling behind Fun With War Crimes. Tell me, honestly...Does this war make me look fat?”

Comedy web series FUN WITH WAR CRIMES team includes Creator/Writer/Director Tim Bartell, Producer: Joe Brouillette, Executive Producers: Avi deTurenne and Aaron De Los Reyes, Director of Photography: Stephen Treadway and Editor: Bruno San Rafael.

Trailers for the comedy web series FUN WITH WAR CRIMES can be seen on YouTube, Myspace: www.myspace.com/funwithwarcrimes.com the series website: www.funwithwarcrimes.com, the series blog: <http://funwithwarcrimes.blogspot.com> and numerous other social and political networking sites.

About Doggie Dream Productions and Kiros Pictures:

Doggie Dream Productions (founded by Tim Bartell) was also producer of the comedy “First Date Meltdown” which won awards on the festival circuit in 2006 and currently can be seen on iFilm.com.

Joseph Brouillette’s Kiros Pictures has produced other films most notably short film “Sissy Frenchfry” which was the Grand Prize Winner at Planet Out Film Festival and is distributed on iTunes and DVD release with Wolfe Releasing 2007. Kiros Pictures has a current project in development with executive producer Tom DeSanto (X-Men, Transformers).

For more information, please contact:

Fun With War Crimes, the comedy web series that put the Bush Administration on Trial melinda@funwithwarcrimes.com and by fax eFAX 413-826-1472